

BURGHERGRAY LLP WELCOMES LEADING SECURITIES ATTORNEY TRINA L. GLASS

Trina L. Glass

NEW YORK — (April 7, 2025) BurgherGray LLP is pleased to announce that Trina L. Glass has joined the firm as Senior Counsel in its Investment Management Practice Group. Trina brings nearly two decades of securities industry experience to the firm, with extensive expertise in regulatory compliance matters related to investment advisers, broker-dealers, and investment funds. She is the latest in a string of stellar additions to the firm's Investment Management Practice Group, which the firm has aggressively built up over the last two years with attorneys from both big law firms and in-house, such as Gregory Weston, Wayne Chan, Christopher Kelly and John Eden.

Trina focuses her practice on securities regulatory and compliance matters under the Investment Advisers Act, Investment Company Act, Securities Act, and Securities Exchange Act, as well as on data privacy and cybersecurity, including Artificial Intelligence ethics and compliance matters. She regularly represents clients in SEC enforcement investigations and examinations, including matters related to best-interest analysis, cybersecurity, marketing rule compliance, regulation BI implementation, custody rule issues, and off-channel communications.

"We are delighted to welcome Trina to BurgherGray," said Gopal M. Burgher, Managing Partner of the firm." Her unique and otherwise impressive background in securities regulatory compliance and privacy and cybersecurity matters, makes her an immediate asset to the firm and our clients. Honing her skills working at a combination of law firms, regulatory agencies, and corporate legal departments gives her invaluable insight that can readily be leveraged for the benefit our clients. Trina's addition reflects our commitment to building a team of exceptional attorneys who offer practical, innovative, business-focused solutions to complex legal challenges."

In addition to her time at Big Law before joining BurgherGray, Trina spent several years at BNY Pershing, serving as Vice President of Regulatory Analysis and Procedures Management, with responsibility for overseeing compliance efforts for multiple business units, implementing supervisory structures for 84 departments, and managing the development and execution of regulatory compliance initiatives while regularly reporting to C-suite executives. She also brings an insider's regulatory perspective from her time at FINRA (New Jersey District) and her tenure at Bureau of Securities of the New Jersey Office of the Attorney General.

"I am excited to join BurgherGray's impressive Investment Management team," said Trina. "The firm's commitment to excellence, client service, and diversity aligns perfectly with my professional values. Having worked on both the regulatory and private practice sides of the investment management industry, I look forward to leveraging my experience to help clients navigate the increasingly complex securities regulatory landscape. I'm particularly eager to expand the firm's capabilities in cybersecurity and privacy compliance, areas that currently present significant challenges and opportunities for investment advisers and investment funds."

Trina is deeply committed to service in the legal community, serving on the District Ethics Committee at the pleasure of the New Jersey Supreme Court. She has been Chair of the New Jersey State Bar Association (NJSBA) Privacy Law Committee since 2022 and is a member of the NJSBA Committee on Artificial Intelligence. Additionally, she serves as a Board Member of the Minorities in the Profession Committee for the NJSBA and as Vice President of the Garden State Bar Association.
